Hi Harry, Tamara,

As I mentioned on last evening's call, I'm not a fan of Hometime having to check the accuracy of the data in the platform.

That being said, I've ran some analysis for both the sub-accounts and found these that need investigation:

MRP sub-account

1. HA-bUqRcno7HCn (Vrbo) — GST stripped, not re-added The cleaning fee came through from Vrbo at $555. Guesty has reduced it to $504.55 on the owner payout, stripping $50.45 (10% GST), but that GST isn't re-added anywhere. The reservation's total tax is only $2.00 and the $50.45 appears in no GST line. Net effect: the guest paid the full $555, but the owner payout is short $50.45. The cleaning-fee line also carries an unrecognizedChannelFee warning with an empty extracted-tax array.

2. BC-5A5528F9C (Booking.com) — GST and VAT both applied On this reservation the cleaning fee ($213.64 net) has both a GST line ($21.36) and a VAT line ($21.36) applied to it — $42.72 of tax on a single fee, taking the displayed total to $256.36 against the channel amount of $235. GST and VAT are being double-counted on the same fee. For an Australian reservation this should be a single GST line. The duplicate VAT inflates the fee by $21.36.

TBC sub-account

Reservation HMJBNBWJX8 (Airbnb). The guest paid A$739.29, which landed correctly in Cash. Guesty also split the GST out: a Cleaning Fee GST line of A$15.46 in the Owners ledger, offset in Owners VAT.

1. Advanced deposit doesn't clear. Net Rental Income is booked at A$723.84, net of GST. But the payment clearing against the Advanced deposit only recognises the A$723.84, so the full A$739.29 received doesn't clear. That leaves the Advanced deposit (Guest) sub-ledger stuck at -A$15.45 for the reservation, the exact GST amount. Net Rental Income is missing the GST.

2. GST rounding inconsistency (recurrence of the issue we raised previously). The GST line is calculated at A\$15.46 ($170 \div 11 = 15.4545$, rounded up), while the amount left stranded in the advanced deposit is A\$15.45. So even the two GST figures Guesty produces on the same fee don't agree to the cent. This is the same rounding behaviour we flagged previously and it's still present.

Hi Harry,

As raised to you over the course of last week, there are immediate issues that needs to be resolved ahead of our payout tomorrow, so I would really appreciate an update by tomorrow morning on where we stand with these issues.

1. Airbnb tax issue on markups - I have reran the reservations report checking out in May as of today - refer to tab 4,
 - a. The line items in blue continue to be an issue, where tax is being adjusted by guesty in the backend on markup fees, resulting in unreconciled balances.
 - b. Joshua Ambrosini - shows fully paid but the advanced deposit is still off.
 - c. For all the reservations highlighted in yellow - not all payments under the "payments" section has been recognised in accounting - therefore it is showing up in the advanced deposit. Please reprocess cash for payments to be recognised, and review if that gets rid of advanced deposit.
2. VRBO channel commissions are not pulling through correctly. For all reservations that are checking out in May, I noticed in one reservation (Russell Clowser) that the channel commission did not reconcile with the OTA. I have since pulled a list on tab 5 for all the VRBO check outs in May, and reviewed them individually against the OTA. I noticed only 4 reservations with channel commissions that reconcile with the OTA, while others do not. Is there a reason why, and how can I fix it? Currently, I cannot adjust the journal entries/amount within accounting (system restricted).

Can I please get you to place priority on the above so I can payout by EOD tomorrow?

Regards
Ching

Hi Alvan,

The reservations (all but two which the team will fix tonight) that you shared last week have been fixed and we are generating an impact report to wider assess the effect of the issue that was seen.

The issue root cause is due to markup on fees being extracted during each calculation and then tax was re-added. However, because inclusive taxes were extracted from the markup, the re-added amount lacked tax, which made the original amount before extraction incorrect. The behaviour has now been fixed and should not occur on new reservations.

We are working through items with Ching for MRP end of month at the moment as well which we are assessing.

Many thanks,

Harry

Hi Alvan,

Apologies for the silence here.

The reservations that you shared last week have been in investigation and the team has identified an issue with these and the team are both fixing the issue and also identifying other reservations affected by this.

Ching has sent me the reservations from today and I have my daily with Alex where I will show him through these and then he will investigate.

I will provide a full update following this

Can I get an update on where we are with the list of reservations that has tax issues still outstanding?

I understand Ching flagged today a number of reservations where "Markup on fees" is now affected by the GST bug.

Thanks, would be good to understand root cause once Alex gets onto this.

A secondary question that still bothers me is that I expect Guesty to have tools and reporting to surface tax discrepancies by now but it doesn't seem to catch these. In contrast, a user like me using the Guesty MCP could easily find these errors. This is quite disappointing so I would love to chat through how Guesty can build reports / queries to really surface if the output in Guesty differs from the channels.

Hi Alvan,

When I spoke with Ching this morning we found this use case where what we believe has happened is that the tax has been added rather than extracted causing the overpaid status.

There is a ticket open and ready for Alex when he starts and we will report back with reservations like before

Thanks,

Harry, Alex,

I'm reviewing the MRP EOM with Ching and ran the 1-30May reservations to check the GST amounts. It looks like there are a lot of reservations where the GST is now included, but they were calculated incorrectly:

See the example that shows the discrepancy and the file that lists the reservations are affected for this period only.

Can I ask to investigate this please?

The query was rerun and found 38 reservations with this use case and we have fixed 37 of these reservations. One reservation remains that Alex is looking at, DBBF2A108B67, and we will solve this ASAP.

I attach the reservation list that they found.

Apologies again for the back and forth on this!

Hi Harry,

I will await the full investigation and proposal from Yoav on Whitesands.

For the 2 reservations we reported, it looks like BC-62F3FF509 has been corrected, but not HM22EC9R8Y (See screenshot).

This contradicts your statement that the new query returned no reservations requiring correction. Can you confirm what is accurate?

Morning Alvan,

Apologies; rerunning the query and finding why the reservations were missed took longer than expected last night. I should have messaged you an update!

The reservations you found were an edge case of the same missing tax item issue we saw previously. Previously, the tax column had a '-' here; these reservations had $0.00 values which is why the query missed them. The team has since rerun the query to include this and confirms it returned no reservations for both MRP and TBC accounts.

We will continue to monitor reservations coming through the channels daily to ensure forward data accuracy.

I also wanted to update you on Whitesands 1 and 3 villas where we saw tax issues and negative accommodation fares. Unfortunately, during the investigation we found a bug in a feature toggle. This bug meant that for any properties syncing Rates & Availability to Booking.com (which included these two properties because they were part of a multi-unit), the property's fees were not bundled into the Accommodation Fare when the price was sent, so they weren't sent to the channel. This means that when the guest books and the reservation comes back into Guesty the fees pull out from the Accommodation Fare causing a negative accommodation fare. The bug has been fixed; however, some reservations were affected by this. We are assessing the financial impact and Yoav will reach out to you regarding compensation. We will provide a report of these reservations but our guidance is that we should return the fees to the accommodation fare (we can do this in bulk), which will result in no owner impact and the fees will be covered by the Guesty compensation.

To clarify, Whitesands 1 and 3 are the only properties affected by this as all other properties in both MRP and TBC are on Full Sync with Booking.com.

Please let me know if you have any questions,

Harry

Of course!

1. Team is reviewing this and will report back.
2. Alex and the team are reviewing the reservations to determine what they can fix overnight. This will narrow the reservations down to those requiring review with the Hometime team, which we can discuss tomorrow on the call. These reservations ensure we are not overriding adjustments or manually added line items etc. Our goal is to get these done ASAP.
3. Myself and Alex just came off a call and he will look into it. I will get an update tomorrow of why these reservations are appearing and as you said there is a trend there. From a configuration perspective, myself and Alex from an initial review did not see anything that stood out to us but the team will take a deeper review and be able to update tomorrow

Will update with further information in the morning.

Hi Harry,

Thanks for sharing the data:

I've pulled the full list of reservations in TBC and MRP missing the extractedInclusiveTaxes breakdown. The numbers for the next 2 months' checkout are still quite large, and the issue appears to be occurring for reservations created as late as 27/May.

Summary of confirmed bookings affected

43 confirmed reservations across MRP (30) and TBC (13), missing taxes that can't be exported cleanly to accounting.

Channel split:

- Booking.com: 24 bookings ($19,791)
- Airbnb: 9 ($21,513)
- Direct migrated: 6 ($33,576) — all MRP carryover
- VRBO: 3, Stayz: 1

Priority: May and June checkouts

36 of the 43 confirmed bookings (84%) check out in May or June 2026. This needs to be prioritised before owner statements run. We need these fixed first.

The concerning part

You confirmed yesterday that this issue had been resolved for future reservations. It doesn't seem to be accurate:

- The most recent ones were booked on 26 May (two MRP Whitesands Villa 3 reservations on Booking.com) and 27 May (TBC McLeod Rise on Airbnb)

The Whitesands villas pattern is also worth flagging: 16 of the 23 recent bookings are MRP Villa 1 or Villa 3 on Booking.com with the same fee combination (Clean Fee, Nightly consumable charge, Markups on fees). This looks like it could be a listing-level config issue rather than a one-off. Is there something we need to check?

What I need from your team

1. Confirmation that the 26 and 27 May bookings have been investigated and what the root cause is? When exactly did the bug fix go through?
2. A plan and timeline to remediate the existing 43 confirmed bookings, prioritising the May and June checkouts
3. If the Whitesands villas need a listing-level reconfigure, let us know what's needed from our end

Happy to jump on a call today or tomorrow if that's faster than email. I'm available when Alex is online from 5pm. Thanks

Morning all,

I attach a list of the reservations we discussed yesterday that require Guesty to review them for both MRP and TBC. At this time there is nothing required from Hometime in order to solve these and I will chat with the team through my regular calls this week if they are required. We are aiming to solve these ASAP.

https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1i53jgss0aih3Ad-CzByODHFv_dTkA4BNJ-PyGieWG1o/edit?gid=0#gid=0

As discussed yesterday, this is an initial list so the list could have more additions as we do more checks.

I have added comments to the issue tracker for the items we discussed yesterday that are TBC. A few have been solved, and others are being actively investigated. Added next update dates on the items too so that we can track everything.

Many thanks,
